"The Selflessly platform not only supports an employee's choice for volunteering, but also provides a means to track contributions, taking the burden of tracking off of any one individual in the organization. With minimal administrative oversight, the platform greatly simplifies the process of offering and tracking volunteer time off"

Christine McDonnell
Co-Founder & CEO

"It is clear that more people are expecting their employers to provide benefits to the community as well as to their employees. Working with Selflessly is a natural fit for Central Indiana Community Foundation (CICF). Our goals and culture align, providing access to social impact for companies with as few as six employees to thousand."
